Danielle Adeyemo

Shopify Product Engineer building scalable commerce systems
Greater Ipswich Area

Summary

Product-focused engineering for scalable Shopify commerce systems.

My work sits at the intersection of engineering, product thinking, and performance, building scalable, maintainable Shopify solutions for brands operating at scale. I focus on architecture, long-term extensibility, and implementation decisions that support growth rather than short-term fixes.

I've worked across agency and product environments, contributing to complex Shopify builds, custom integrations, and performance-led storefront development for established brands. I'm particularly interested in systems that balance commercial requirements with technical clarity.

Currently operating within a Shopify Platinum Partner environment, working on high-impact e-commerce projects where reliability, performance, and quality matter.

I value thoughtful engineering, clear ownership, and building things that last.

Alongside client and agency work, I explore product-led approaches to Shopify development and system design.
